REPORT

"This above all:
to thine own self be true,
and it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
Farewell, my blessing season this in thee!"

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

“Through these lines, he is telling Laertes to be faithful and honest to one's interests. He advises him to be true to himself, even at times when people don't concur with his opinions, to stick to what one firmly believes in, and not succumb to societal pressure. Truly sagacious Mr. Polonius, and original too.

Widely reckoned as one of the greatest playwright of all time, William Shakespeare was a man of extraordinary wit and extraordinary grasp of human emotions that he portrayed with his unparalleled skill to create a stimulating imagery and situations. What is truly incredible and startling at the same time about this genius is the 'appeal' of his works that despite being centuries old still meld so beautifully with the modern times (as if he practiced necromancy and gathered knowledge of the posterity to pen some of his most powerful works) that his works have traversed the bridges of time and continue to reverberate.”

"This above all:

If the truth be known in my opinion this chart of the Dow Jones Industrial Average represents absolute perfection. It is telling us that a massive collapse in the stock market is about to take place. The momentum indicator beneath the chart is telling us that the energy fueling this move is just about gone. The volume indicator is doing exactly what it should do if a collapse is about to begin.

Can we be certain that a collapse is imminent? Shakespeare provides us with the answer as to certainty.

“To die, to sleep – to sleep, perchance to dream – ay, there’s the rub, for in this sleep of death what dreams may come...” (Hamlet)

Unfortunately, we cannot be certain that a collapse in the stock market, as represented by the Head and Shoulders pattern on this chart, will take place. However ...

DOW JONES INDUSTRIAL AVERAGE MONTHLY

... we do know that the biggest moves tend to occur on either side of Delta (LTD) # 1. A close look shows us that LTD # 2 low for the Dow Industrials is due to arrive on October 16, 2019 (10/16/2019). At the same time Delta (LTD) # 1 high for gold is due to arrive on October 16, 2019 (10/16/2019). The ingredients for a massive explosion are in place. Will the explosion take place?

GOLD MONTHLY

Since the baseball season is underway we could call this a “Double Header.” The Dow Industrials plus the Dow Transports are shouting “Bombs Away.” When and if they hit bottom, economic, financial and stock market devastation should abound.
