PART 2

TRADING THE FINAL SILVER BULL MARKET MAJOR WAVE FIVE BREAKOUT

There are normally Five Major Waves in a completed commodity bull market. So far silver has mostly followed this “normal” behavior. However, corrective Major Wave Four in the current silver bull market being a Running Flat Correction is far from “normal.” It is a most rare correction. The huge Leg B rise occurred simultaneously with the advent of Quantitative Easing. Yes Sir, flood the market with money by pushing a few electronic buttons and save the system. “Nuff said.” Silver is responding to Q.E. as only Silver can. The question I am being asked is, “How high will the price of silver go?” The only answer I can conservatively project is ...

Running Flat Correction

“The forces in the direction of the larger trend are so powerful that the pattern becomes skewed in that direction.” E. W. P.

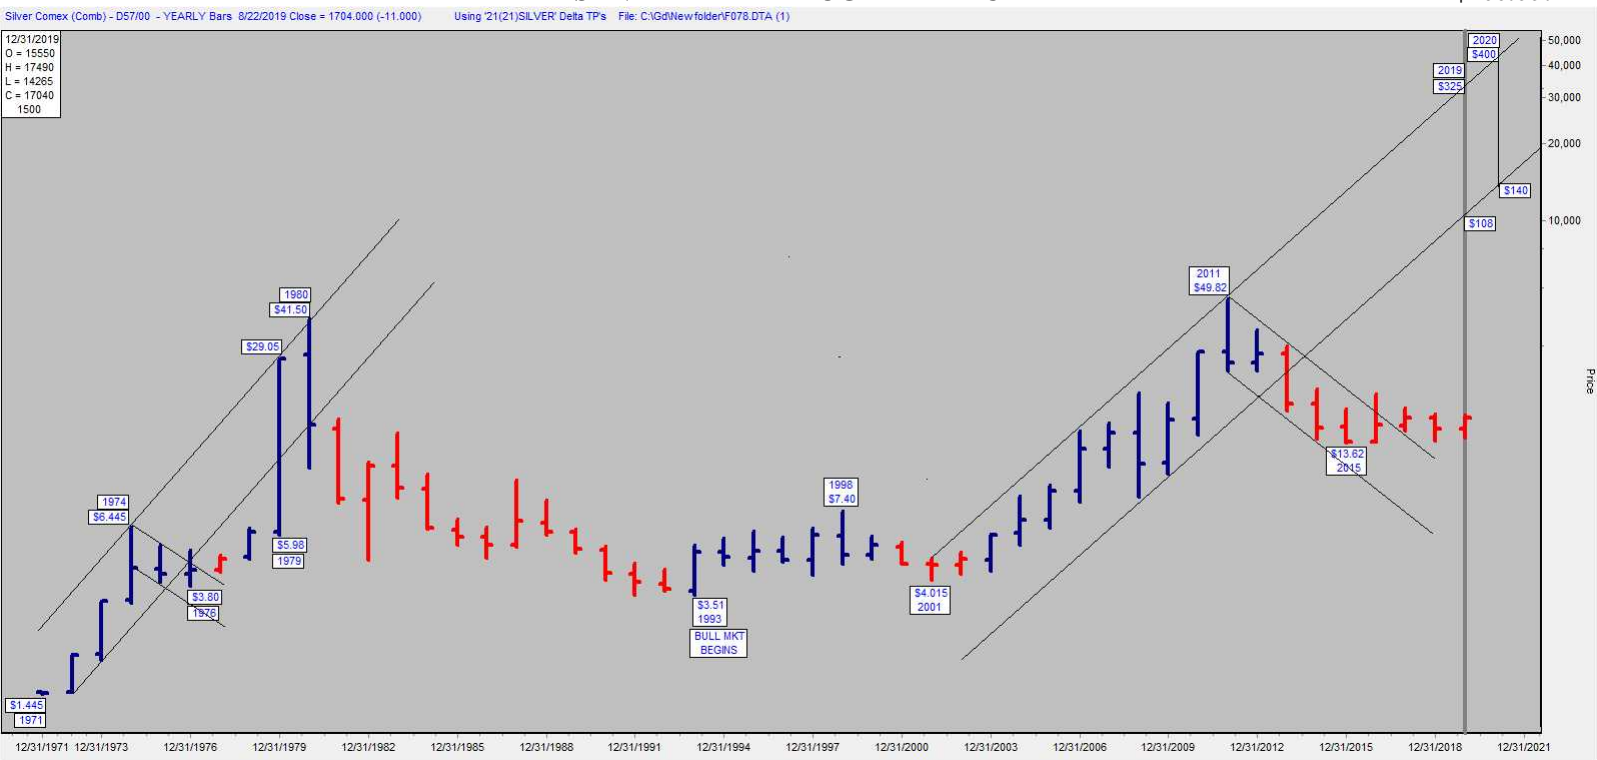

SILVER QUARTERLY

... since the current yearly logarithmic pattern in silver appears to be repeating the yearly logarithmic pattern of the 1970s and if the price as in the last silver bull market touches or exceeds the upper trend line of the parallel channel the answer is ...

How High the Moon?

SILVER YEARLY LOGARITHMIC

$400.00?

Let's not forget that the biggest moves tend to occur on either side of # 1.
