SATURDAY SERMON WITH CHARTS

Has there ever been a country whose stock average was in a bull market, the price of gold and silver was in a bull market and their currency was in a bear market?

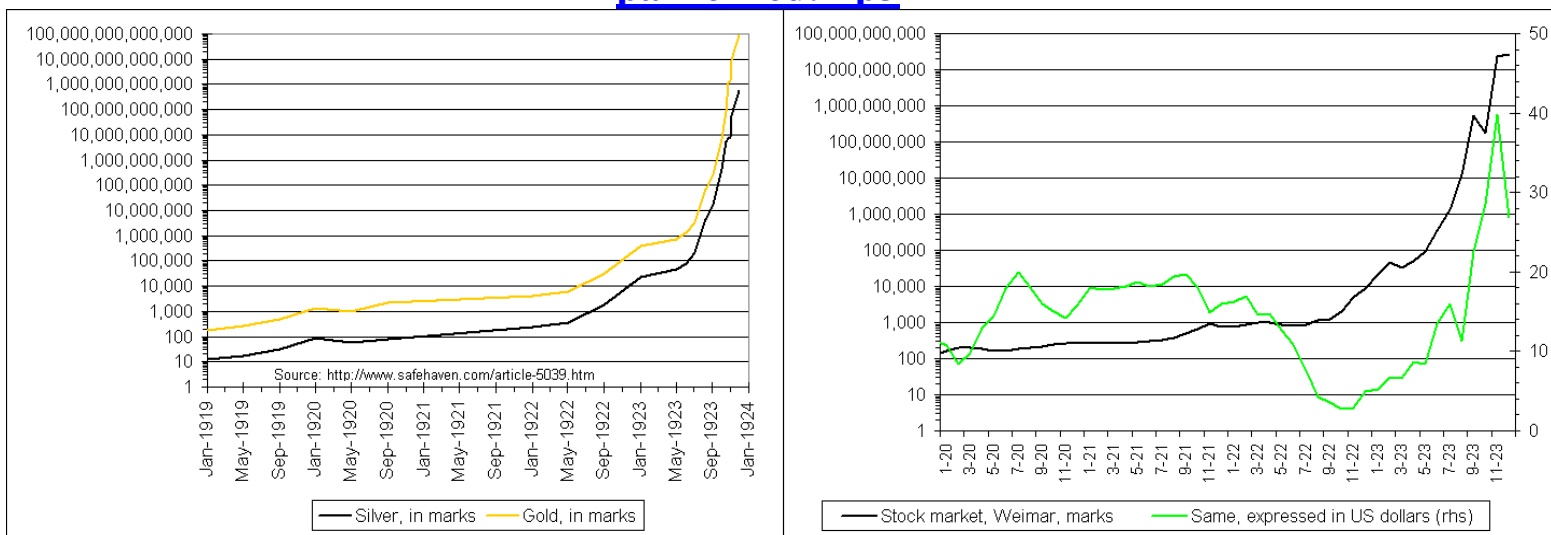

Katastrophe des Jahrhunderts

These charts represent the pathetic financial and economic disaster made in Germany by the Weimar Republic. Gold rose dramatically, silver rose a bit less dramatically, their stocks rose slightly by comparison to the rise in gold and silver and the mark collapsed in buying power.

Today, September 20, 2018 the Dow Industrial Average confirmed the highs in the Dow Transport Average. A Dow Theory bull market has been confirmed. The S & P 500 has been making new all-time highs. Gold and silver have resumed their bull market. The Dollar Index has resumed its bear market. This Federal Reserve American made disaster of the centuries is best summarized by this;

If the market trends as shown on the above charts continue, history will probably show that since the founding of the Federal Reserve System in 1913 our politicians ignored all the warning signals that were screaming, “Disaster Dead Ahead.” The hundreds of thousands of Americans who died defending this country will have died in vain.
